Reduced Rates to Logan on Account of Pioneer Day.

SALT LAKEERS WILL BE THERE.

Prof. Younger's Special Train Today—Debut of Pioneer Day—A Conductor's Experience—Personal and General.

Logan is preparing to celebrate the Twenty-fourth of July—Pioneers' day—in a most brilliant manner.

To mark the occasion a committee composed of C. P. W. Pullman, Mr. H. H. Wilson, and Mr. J. W. Wilson, were in Salt Lake yesterday, with a view to securing the services of the Pullman and Central car lines, which did such good work at the Orem carnival, to accept the invitation to be present and join in the festivities on that day.

Both of these organizations, which did such good work at the Orem carnival, really accepted the invitation to be present and join in the festivities on that day. Every effort will be made to have the full strength of both organizations out, and that they will fitly represent Salt Lake on the occasion there can be no room for doubt.

The committee have also made arrangements for special excursion rates from all points between Salt Lake and Logan, and there can be little doubt but that many of our citizens will avail themselves of this opportunity to visit the Queen City of the North.

It is understood that the Union Pacific will furnish free transportation for the members of the Pullman and Central car lines, and there can be little doubt but that many of our citizens will avail themselves of this opportunity to visit the Queen City of the North.

Prof. Younger's Special Train. Prof. Younger's special train for Garfield will leave this evening at 6:45, returning at midnight. All his former pupils are invited. Tickets can be had at Charley Grosheide's, or from Dr. E. M. Freeman, F. H. Teyton and Dr. Younger.

Decedence of Tips. There is talk of a strike of Pullman car porters, says the Register. If it is decided upon it will be terrific in its results. From years of experience in striking—passengers—Pullman car porters must undoubtedly be awarded the palm as the champion strikers in the whole country.

We leave it to the fancy of any traveler who has been struck by one of these porters to picture the result should their combined striking power be brought to bear upon any company, however powerful that company might be.

Indeed it seems that the Pullman company has tolerated a practice of striking among its porters, which said porters will now exercise upon its employer. The only point of weakness in the proposed movement is that having always found the individual strike effective, the porters will not be able to co-operate in the larger effort.

The complaining employees allege that tips have fallen off one-half, and are still going. Well let them go. They are the most thoroughly un-American of anything in our railway system.

It may be remarked in this connection that, hard as the porters' lot is declared to be, the scores and hundreds of applications for the position on file in the Pullman offices show that there are many willing to fill vacancies.

The First Train. The first train of broad-gauge freight cars that ever passed through the Royal Gorge left Pueblo yesterday morning. It was not the first broad gauge, however, to pass through the Great canon. Last April a party of Pullman porters, who were taken through the canon in a train of broad gauge sleepers.

There was no especial ceremony attending the running of the first freight engine yesterday morning. The big ten-wheel engine yanked the cars along, totally oblivious of the fact that they were riding on standard and not narrow-gauge tracks. The passenger train was made and the train rolled into Salida on time. Superintendent of Transportation Burns and Superintendent Deuel were on hand and followed the freight in their special car.

The broad gauge track is nearly completed to Leadville. Pretty soon Traffic Manager Hughes will send word to the standard city that broad-gauge cars are coming to be loaded with ore—Denver News.

The Railroads of Kansas. Kansas has more miles of railroads than all the New England states put together. She has 1,100 more miles than the great empire state of New York, whose population and wealth surpasses Kansas four to one. She has more than the great states of Pennsylvania, Iowa or Texas. Kansas to-day has 5,701 miles of railroads. Illinois alone surpasses her with 9,900 miles. Next comes Iowa with 8,300 miles. Following her is Pennsylvania with 8,224 miles. Then comes Texas with 8,210 miles, and Colorado with 5,000. Only think of it! During the three years from 1867 to 1890 inclusive Kansas constructed 4,300 miles of railroads, which is more than any one of the twenty-seven of her sister states have in operation to-day; there are only thirteen states in the union who have a greater mileage of railroads than Kansas built in these three years.

Employees as Stockholders. The desirability of having the officers and employees of railway companies personally interested in the property as owners of its securities has frequently been considered, and some attempts in this direction have been made. The Railway Age says: That co-operation in this form would in many cases be beneficial both to employees and to the companies is evident, but, unfortunately, railway securities in this country do not as a rule offer much temptation as a means for the investment of hard-earned savings, owing largely to the popular attitude of hostility against railway companies, in which even the employees, as well as the professional politicians, are too much inclined to join. If the people living alongside of and served by every railway, and also those employed by it, were directly interested in the property of the property by being joint owners, an astonishing change would immediately take place in public sentiment and action, and the railways, instead of being looked upon as the property of "foreign capital," and forming the natural prey of the local public, would become, in the minds of the patron and employee, "our property," the rights and interests of which would be carefully studied and maintained.

A Conductor's Experience. "It's training and association that does it," said a conductor on one of the large railroads in a conversation with a reporter about taking up tickets on the heavily-loaded trains, and remembering the passengers from whom tickets have already been taken.

"It's first practice, and then an association of certain surroundings with the passenger as he gives the ticket, which becomes an almost unconscious mental process with the conductor after he has become thoroughly experienced. It becomes such an unconscious habit with him that he is not aware at the time that he notices these attendant circumstances."

"These attendant circumstances are chiefly the dress of the passenger, his face, and frequently any odd package or parcel he may have with him. I once remembered a man for miles by a cut on his lip. Whatever the conductor's eye first notices the instant it settles on a passenger, it is by that largely that he remembers the passenger. An odd hat, an overcoat, a collar, are all valuable aids in this. But perhaps one of the most valuable aids in this respect is a necktie. I don't know how many men I have remembered just by their hats and neckties. Once a passenger tried to evade after I had taken up his ticket. He had on a very odd colored necktie, with very
